

Lesley University's M.S. in Ecological Teaching and Learning Cohort

New Ecological Teaching and Learning Cohort at Olympic Park Institute July 2-23, 2010

Lesley University is excited to announce a new M.S. in Ecological Teaching and Learning (ETL) cohort at the Olympic Park Institute on Crescent Lake in Port Angeles, WA.

The ETL program teaches students to integrate ecological principles into any curriculum, program, or teaching opportunity across all disciplines at any grade or age level. The program's pedagogy focuses on ecological interconnections, patterns and interactions, and providing a critical understanding of complex and dynamic systems.

Students will begin the 32-credit ETL program with an intensive summer field experience—either on the west coast in Port Angeles, WA or on the east coast in Cobscook, ME.

For more information or to apply:

Graduate and Adult Bachelor's Admissions Services
888.LESLEY.U
info@lesley.edu